

Title: The Legacy Recipe

Genre: Melodic Trap / Soulful Hip-Hop

Vibe: Introspective, Cinematic, and Emotional

[Introduction]

(Soft piano chords blending with a distant, atmospheric synth)

Mama's bailing down that road.

Granny on the line, wondering if I'm still home.

"It's the real action..."

[Verse 1: The Weight of Expectations]

My granny called me up, said, "Travie, you work too hard".

She's worried that the lights will make me leave her in the dark.

Mama's heart used to break in pieces every single day.

Watching her child fall in and out of cuffs, trying to find a way.

I was that bad ass with a thing for sweets, she used to say.

Now I'm hot on the street, but the price is what I have to pay.

[Pre-Chorus: The Generational Tension]

She wants to show me how to whip that recipe.

But the concept of her school doesn't feel secure to me.

Her parents look at her funny if she dares to drop out.

That's what being self-conscious is really all about.

[Chorus: The 90210 Legacy]

I don't want your apple pie, mama, I need my own.

Searching for that alley in the 90210.

Trying to find life's meaning, a remedy, a soul.

Building my own legacy, taking full control.

Everything that shines ain't always gonna be gold.

But I'm on the pursuit of happiness before I grow old.

[Verse 2: Fatherhood and Success]

Now my daddy's happy because that money's coming in.

Mama calls me up to tell me she loves me again.

I built the Astroworld playground just to play with my baby.

Trying to provide the peace in a world that's going crazy.

I named my daughter like a dream I couldn't afford.

While the people highest up are still feeling bored.

I passed the rock to the legends and they passed it back.

Smiling at the ones who laughed while I stayed on track.

[Bridge: The Warning]

Stop trying to be God, that's just not your job.

Don't you ever leave your people behind to the mob.

We always forgive, but we don't forget easily.

Relationships are mazes, phases of what we could be.

The prettiest people do the ugliest things for a ring.

But a parent's love is the only song I really need to sing.

[Final Chorus]

I don't want your apple pie, mama, I need my own.

Searching for that alley in the 90210.

Trying to find life's meaning, a remedy, a soul.

Building my own legacy, taking full control.

Everything that shines ain't always gonna be gold.

But I'm on the pursuit of happiness before I grow old.

[Outro]

(Beat fades into a slowed, distorted vocal)

I'll be fine once I get it....

I hope they kill us with a ghost in the Lambo.

Doors going up... suicide doors....

Granny, I'ma get it....

Straight up.
